Index to Volume XV

AUTHOR INDEX

Brady, Michael, Toward a computational theory of early visual processing in reading 183
Burnhill, Peter, designer of Winter issue
Coltheart, Max, Disorders of reading and their implications for models of normal reading 245
Green, M. W., The construction and implementation of the cuneiform writing system 345
Ehrlich, Susan F., Children's word recognition in prose context 219
Haber, Lyn R. (with Ralph Haber), Visual components of the reading process 147
Haber, Ralph Norman (with Lyn Haber), Visual components of the reading process 147
Hartley, James, guest editor of Winter issue: The spatial arrangement of text
Hartley, James (with Trueman), The effects of changes in layout and changes in wording on preferences for instructional text 13
Inhoff, Albrecht-Werner (with Morrison), Visual factors and eye movements in reading 129
Jewett, Don L., Multi-level writing in theory and practice 32
Jonassen, David H., Information mapping: a description, rationale, and comparison with programmed instruction 55
Justus, Carol, Visual sentences in cuneiform Hittite 373
Morrison, Robert E. (with Inhoff), Visual factors and eye movements in reading 129
Norton, Linda S., Patterned note-taking: an evaluation 67
Pollatsek, Alexander (with Well), Word processing in reading: a commentary on the papers 287
Powell, Marvin, guest editor of Autumn issue: Aspects of cuneiform writing
Powell, Marvin, Three problems in the history of cuneiform writing: origins, direction of script, literacy 419
Rayner, Keith, guest editor of Spring/Summer issue: Visual cues in word recognition and reading
Rayner, Keith, Visual cues in word recognition and reading: introduction 125
Rotondo, John A. (with Shebilske), Typographical and spatial cues that facilitate learning from textbooks 41
Sack, Ronald H., The temple scribe in Chaldean Uruk 409
Schmandt-Besserat, Denise, From tokens to tablets: a re-evaluation of the so-called "numerical tablets" 321
Shebilske, Wayne L. (with Rotondo), Typographical and spatial cues that facilitate learning from textbooks 41
Sloboda, John, The uses of space in music notation 86
Trueman, Mark (with Hartley), The effects of changes in layout and changes in wording on preferences for instructional text 13
Twyman, Michael, Typography without words 5
Well, Arnold D. (with Pollatsek), Word processing in reading: a commentary on the papers 287

Index to Volume XV

AUTHOR INDEX

Brady, Michael, Toward a computational theory of early visual processing in reading 183
Burnhill, Peter, designer of Winter issue
Coltheart, Max, Disorders of reading and their implications for models of normal reading 245
Green, M. W., The construction and implementation of the cuneiform writing system 345
Ehrlich, Susan F., Children's word recognition in prose context 219
Haber, Lyn R. (with Ralph Haber), Visual components of the reading process 147
Haber, Ralph Norman (with Lyn Haber), Visual components of the reading process 147
Hartley, James, guest editor of Winter issue: The spatial arrangement of text
Hartley, James (with Trueman), The effects of changes in layout and changes in wording on preferences for instructional text 13
Inhoff, Albrecht-Werner (with Morrison), Visual factors and eye movements in reading 129
Jewett, Don L., Multi-level writing in theory and practice 32
Jonassen, David H., Information mapping: a description, rationale, and comparison with programmed instruction 55
Justus, Carol, Visual sentences in cuneiform Hittite 373
Morrison, Robert E. (with Inhoff), Visual factors and eye movements in reading 129
Norton, Linda S., Patterned note-taking: an evaluation 67
Pollatsek, Alexander (with Well), Word processing in reading: a commentary on the papers 287
Powell, Marvin, guest editor of Autumn issue: Aspects of cuneiform writing
Powell, Marvin, Three problems in the history of cuneiform writing: origins, direction of script, literacy 419
Rayner, Keith, guest editor of Spring/Summer issue: Visual cues in word recognition and reading
Rayner, Keith, Visual cues in word recognition and reading: introduction 125
Rotondo, John A. (with Shebilske), Typographical and spatial cues that facilitate learning from textbooks 41
Sack, Ronald H., The temple scribe in Chaldean Uruk 409
Schmandt-Besserat, Denise, From tokens to tablets: a re-evaluation of the so-called "numerical tablets" 321
Shebilske, Wayne L. (with Rotondo), Typographical and spatial cues that facilitate learning from textbooks 41
Sloboda, John, The uses of space in music notation 86
Trueman, Mark (with Hartley), The effects of changes in layout and changes in wording on preferences for instructional text 13
Twyman, Michael, Typography without words 5
Well, Arnold D. (with Pollatsek), Word processing in reading: a commentary on the papers 287

TITLE INDEX

Abstracts of articles in French, German, and Spanish 116
Aspects of cuneiform writing: special issue (number 4)
The authors 114, 216, 309, 441
Bibliography: spatial arrangement of text 111
Children's word recognition in prose context, Susan F. Ehrlich 219
The construction and implementation of the cuneiform writing system, M. W. Green 345
Correspondence 115
Disorders of reading and their implications for models of normal reading, Max Coltheart 245
The effects of changes in layout and changes in wording on preferences for instructional text, James Hartley & Mark Trueman 13
From tokens to tablets: a re-evaluation of the so-called "numerical tablets," Denise Schmandt-Besserat 321
Information mapping: a description, rationale, and comparison with programmed instruction, David Jonassen 55
Multi-level writing in theory and practice, Don L. Jewett 32
Patterned note-taking: an evaluation, Linda S. Norton 67
The spatial arrangement of text: special issue (number 1)
The temple scribe in Chaldean Uruk, Ronald H. Sack 409
Three problems in the history of cuneiform writing: origins, direction of script, literacy, Marvin Powell 419
Toward a computational theory of early visual processing in reading, Michael Brady 183
Typographical and spatial cues that facilitate learning from textbooks, Wayne L. Shebilske & John A. Rotondo 41
Typography without words, Michael Twyman 5
The uses of space in music notation, John Sloboda 86
Visual components of the reading process, Ralph Norman Haber & Lyn R. Haber 147
Visual cues in word recognition and reading: introduction, Keith Rayner 125
Visual cues in word recognition and reading: special issue (numbers 2 & 3)
Visual factors and eye movements in reading, Robert E. Morrison & Albrecht-Werner Inhoff 129
Visual sentences in cuneiform Hittite, Carol Justus 373
Word processing in reading: a commentary on the papers, Arnold D. Well & Alexander Pollatsek 287

NOTE

Readers interested in securing copies of any of the articles listed above should send for the appropriate issue of Visible Language:

Pages 1 through 120 are in the Winter issue.
Pages 121 through 216 are in the Spring issue.
Pages 217 through 312 are in the Summer issue.
Pages 313 through 444 are in the Autumn issue.